Andy Cockburn, Senior Director, Education and Impact, NAIMA Canada

Andy Cockburn is a Red Seal General Carpenter with experience in custom home building, panelized construction, timber framing, stair construction, architectural drafting, and historic restoration. He is also a certified Passive House consultant.

As part of his work at NAIMA Canada, Andy serves on boards and program advisories at educational and industry organizations across Canada. This includes work in technical standards development with the ULC S700 (S702.1, S702.2 & S714) Committee(s) on Thermal Performance and Energy Use in the Built Environment and the CSA Technical Committee for Standard Z301 on Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion in Apprenticeship Program.

Andy is a member of Passive House Canada, the Canadian Association of Consulting Energy Advisors (CACEA) and past president of the Lanark and Leeds Home Builders' Association (LLHBA). He volunteers his time with the Green Building Skills program at YMCA Ottawa and with climate councils in his hometown of Perth, Ontario.
